3. Focus on Learning: Sean McMannon – Superintendent McMannon began the presentation on the WMHS Proficiency-Based Graduation Update. Leon Wheeler, Principal gave an overview of the journey since the Nellie Mae Grant. This presentation began with an introduction, exploration of redesigned school system, GX resources and tools, parent communication and one student’s pathways to graduation (class of 2020). His presentation described the journey through a student’s four years of high school education. He began with Why Proficiency-Based Learning? Seven years ago a community based conversation took place of how to make education work for all students. The Nellie Mae monies were used to redesign learning so when a student graduated they had the skills to continue after graduation. He shared a letter from a former student that is now in college and how her Winooski education had an influence on her. Teacher, Lucas Dunn, continued with the GX Matrix. A student needs to show GP Progressions that have clear goals. The Class of 2020 GX and GP map visual has standards that clearly cannot be met for them, but by 2021 students should be able to meet the expectations. The progress reports have three reporting periods throughout the semester. The report card gives clear GP progressions. Leon continued with parent communication and informed the board that Amy Dickson worked on information gathering from students, parents and staff. The Family/Student Handbook also had information for parents to review along with the October and December articles in the school mewsletter. Parent informational meetings are also offered. The Course of Studies for next school year will have the course name, GX, GP1, GP2 and GP3. The staff came up with a form to translate a credit to proficiency. There are a few areas that make it difficult to calculate a grade to proficiency. A fourth year PLP class planning matrix and final graph of completion will be completed for a student that will move onto college. Tori Cleiland complimented the parties involved with the planning of the Proficiency Based Graduation works. Destiny shared that change is always hard. The transition from grades to GPA has been hard to adjust to. Kim Soukone (former student, now college student) believes that change can be difficult but change is happening everywhere. Jaydyne Crowder likes the narrative reporting better than a grade. He actually enjoys going to school. Alexander Yin asked how the school staff is working on the transition from grades to proficiencies and how to make the transition easier. Leon believes that if there is always opportunities to help get regrounded. He does not want students to be impacted in a negative way and to share the benefits of going down this road. Matthew McNeil asked if there are other schools using this method? Leon explained these proficiencies are being designed for this school. Michael asked about the personalized learning plans and if parents are involved. Leon said yes absolutely parents can weigh in on student’s choices of classes.
